

FuzziBunz Guide to Alternative Uses for Inserts

Everyone has been asking us what to do with their FuzziBunz inserts when they're finished using them. Let's face it, as a cloth diapering mama, you have a lot of inserts to spare.

We turned to our fans to help us come up with a list – 30 to be specific – of popular alternative uses for your retired FuzziBunz microterry inserts. Here's what we've come up with; please let us know if you have other suggestions too!

1.) Sew an insert onto a flat diaper and use as a Swiffer® sweeper pad for dry or wet hardwood floors cleaning.

Tip submitted by Julie Gayler & Nathan Sawyer

2.) Keep inserts handy in the kitchen or family room for spills – great for quick absorption and easy clean up!

Tip submitted by Christina Farris Gordley

3.) Old inserts make great bathroom cleaners. Use them to wipe down mirrors, sinks and toilets.

Tip submitted by Jamie O'Hare

4.) Inserts are the perfect solution for mopping up puppy accidents.

Tip submitted by Andrea Bond

5.) Use old inserts to dust that old piano sitting in the living room.

Tip submitted by Melissa Carroll

6.) Inserts are great for cleaning the inside of your windshield and car windows.

Tip submitted by Shelly Owens

7.) Use old inserts to wipe up what comes out the other end of your baby – spit up!

Tip submitted by Hillary Moore

8.) When breastfeeding, fold an insert in half and stuff them in your bra to absorb leaky milk.

Tip submitted by Aron Meudt

9.) Use old inserts for polishing stainless steel appliances.

Tip submitted by Barbara Jean Henning

10.) Use retired inserts to mop up potty training accidents.

Tip submitted by Jennifer McNeely

11.) Stash a few inserts in your home first aid kit to attend to wounds.

Tip submitted by Kimberly Dart

12.) Fold them in half, sew them closed but leave an opening for your hands and use old inserts as pot holders.

Tip submitted by Deanna Homer Schultze

13.) Use old inserts for cleaning eyeglasses without leaving a scratch. Just add a little water and then gently rub your eyeglasses until they shine.

Tip submitted by Peggy Hass Grimins

14.) Use old inserts to gently dust off your iPhone, iPad, computer or flat screen TVs .

Tip submitted by Jenna Swanson

15.) Inserts make great dry erase board erasers.

Tip submitted by Tonya Regotti

16.) Give extra inserts to your kids and let their imaginations run wild.

Tip submitted by April McFarling Segura

17.) Need to move heavy pieces of furniture? Put your old inserts under the edges/legs of furniture and then slide heavy items more easily across the room.

Tip submitted by Tara Swords

18.) Old inserts make great dishrags!

Tip submitted by Katie Sadler

19.) Use old inserts to line the floor against the bathtub to soak up splashes from kids having too much fun!

Tip submitted by Amy G.

20.) Put a spare insert on the changing table in case of mid-changing accidents.

Tip submitted by Tori Giblin

21.) Soak an old insert in clean, cold water and use as a teething rag.

Tip submitted by Stephanie Violet Clark

22.) Use your old inserts as car wax pads.

Tip submitted by Jamie Sutter

23.) Stuff inserts in your pants during labor after your water breaks.

Tip submitted by Alex Morely

24.) Use old inserts to wipe down wet carts at the store.

Tip submitted by Allison Oren

25.) Get your old inserts wet and freeze then for an easy cold pack.

Tip submitted by Jennifer Cesario

26.) Keep an extra insert near your car potty so you don't have to worry about "spilling."

Tip submitted by Erica Foster Sevigny

27.) Keep spare inserts in your car to use to dry your windows after a car wash.

Tip submitted by Jennifer F.

28.) Inserts make great burp cloths. Use alone or sew a few together.

Tip submitted by Tracy Wilson

29.) Use old inserts as an alternative to using paper towels. Keep a stack of them in your kitchen for easy access.

Tip submitted by Katie Boote Bevington

30.) Use inserts to prop a sleeping toddler's head up in an umbrella stroller.

Tip submitted by Ashely Taylor Panepinto

Other suggestions? Please email them to press@fuzzibunz.com.

